A zoo has no useful purpose. Use specific reasons and examples to explain your answer.

Since past times, a zoo is one of ^{the} amusement places not only for children but also adults. In fact, I frequently went to the zoo near my house with my parents and grandparents. On the other hands, now, thanks to development of technology, we have various options in order to have fun, for example, computer games, jet coasters at playlands, and so on. However, I think a zoo has also important roles even though under recent circumstances. Therefore, I strongly disagree the thought a zoo has no useful purpose. I would like to show two reasons.

At the first place, a zoo is ^a vital space for education. For, I think that children only can learn loving animals and saving nature environment as a human being. For instance, we have studied such a food chain and a nature system in schools and have watched TV program about an animal life. But can we really recognize how animals move and eat foods or how important things of preserving species of animals and environment? To be regret, the answer seems to be no. In my experiences, I could learn such theme ^{our} with impression and reality by watching real animals moving at a zoo. In recent days, we have heard news minors killed cats or dogs by cutting their neck or face, that is one of the problems our recent society has. In addition, it is said one of the causes ^{that} children don't have reality about life of creature because they mainly play computer games including kind of violence. Therefore, in recent times with these problems rather than past times, we should see a zoo as important role for education.

Secondly, a zoo has a purpose to preserve species of ^{animals} animals, that is saving ecosystem. First, in order to saving our ecosystem, we have to preserve species of animals that is to prevent animals from extinction due to cultivation such as deforestation. In this perspective, by the measure of establishing zoos, we are able to save various species of animals. For example, there are some zoos feeding endangered species like cranes and woldcats in Japan. As another perspective, biologists and zoologist have to reserch ecology of animals in order to saving ecosystem properly. For that, reserching animals in zoos is more convenient and efficient way to study than operationg field work at high cost and in short time. In this way, a zoo largely contributes to preserve our ecosystem.

In conclusion, a zoo has fundermental purpose for our life. More to say, the meaning of a zoo is enhensing than before. Although I don't visit a zoo recently, I would like to go and have fun at a zoo(446words).
